Aim & Scope

In this conference, we bring in scholars from different disciplines to give talks on the recent developments in various research directions. The main purpose is to provide a platform for scholars with different research backgrounds to learn from each other. The invited speakers from Taiwan, Japan and Korea include at least the following research fields: fluid dynamics, kinetic theory, dynamical systems, inverse problem, probability, psychology, atmospheric science and biology. Additionally, we also invite a few young scholars to participate in the conference. We hope to promote the collaborations of interdisciplinary research and to cultivate local young scholars through this conference.
